

Quiz: What Is This Fruit Called? 20 Trivia Questions with Pictures

1. These are the largest edible fruits growing on trees. They can weigh up to 34 kg.

- jackfruit
- passion fruit
- nectarine

2. This plant, in addition to the delicious nuts, also yields the so-called caju apples, which are actually sprawling fruit stalks.

- cashews
- kiwi

dogwood

3. The Malacca Peninsula is considered the birthplace of this citrus plant. This fruit is used as a food in its fresh form and for making juices.

cashews

lychee

lime

4. In Russian until the 17th century, the fruit of this plant was called "dula".

apple

pear

apricot

5. The ripe fruits of this plant are sometimes covered with a white waxy coating, which does not affect their taste in any way and is easily erased.

apricot

quince

plum

6. In this plant, the fruit grows directly on the trunk and main branches. This method of fruit formation is called cauliflorum.

jaboticaba

azimina

papaya

7. The peel of these fruits is easily separated from the sweet pulp and yet completely inedible.

lychee

mango

rambutan

8. This plant received its scientific name fortunella after Robert Fortune, who brought it to Europe from China in 1864.

grapefruit

lemon

kumquat

9. This fruit, which grows on an epiphytic liana-like cactus, is also known as "dragon fruit".

- pitaya
- tamarind
- opuntia

10. Funny and tasty hairy fruit. The presence of hairs on this fruit is reflected in their Malay name.

- feijoa
- rambutan
- kiwi

11. This fruit grows on a cactus and is covered in thorns, like the plant itself. It is not only the fruit, but also the fleshy stems, which are used as food.

- papaya
- quince
- opuntia

12. The cultivated varieties of this fruit do not develop seeds, so they are propagated only vegetatively.

- star apple
- pineapple
- rambutan

13. This plant has been cultivated by humans as a fruit plant for more than 4,000 years. The fruits of cultivated plants can reach up to two kilograms.

- quince
- annona
- figs

14. Depending on the method of drying, the dried fruit obtained from this plant is called apricots or ashtak-pashtak.

- plum
- apple

apricot

15. This plant is supposedly the oldest plant grown by man for their delicious fruit.

date

fig

feijoa

16. The fruit of this plant is very tasty and is used in Asian folk medicine to stop bleeding.

avocado

feijoa

mango

17. This fruit has delicious flesh and an inedible rind that contains a sticky dyeing latex.

mangosteen

lime

annona

18. In addition to its edible fruit, some tropical species of this plant are the source of ebony, a valuable wood of very beautiful color.

figs

persimmon

medlar

19. The fruits of this plant become sweet only after freezing or long-term storage. Freshly picked ripe fruits are hard and very sour.

apricot

German medlar

pomeranian

20. Cultivated forms of this plant have no seeds, and the cohorts may consist of more than 300 fruits.

pineapple

banana

sapota

Quiz: What Is This Fruit Called? 20 Trivia Questions with Pictures

Right answers

1. These are the largest edible fruits growing on trees. They can weigh up to 34 kg.
jackfruit
2. This plant, in addition to the delicious nuts, also yields the so-called caju apples, which are actually sprawling fruit stalks.
cashews
3. The Malacca Peninsula is considered the birthplace of this citrus plant. This fruit is used as a food in its fresh form and for making juices.
lime
4. In Russian until the 17th century, the fruit of this plant was called "dula".
pear
5. The ripe fruits of this plant are sometimes covered with a white waxy coating, which does not affect their taste in any way and is easily erased.
plum
6. In this plant, the fruit grows directly on the trunk and main branches. This method of fruit formation is called cauliflorum.
jaboticaba
7. The peel of these fruits is easily separated from the sweet pulp and yet completely inedible.
lychee
8. This plant received its scientific name fortunella after Robert Fortune, who brought it to Europe from China in 1864.
kumquat
9. This fruit, which grows on an epiphytic liana-like cactus, is also known as "dragon fruit".
pitaya
10. Funny and tasty hairy fruit. The presence of hairs on this fruit is reflected in their Malay name.
rambutan
11. This fruit grows on a cactus and is covered in thorns, like the plant itself. It is not only the fruit, but also the fleshy stems, which are used as food.
opuntia
12. The cultivated varieties of this fruit do not develop seeds, so they are propagated only vegetatively.
pineapple
13. This plant has been cultivated by humans as a fruit plant for more than 4,000 years. The fruits of cultivated plants can reach up to two kilograms.

quince

14. Depending on the method of drying, the dried fruit obtained from this plant is called apricots or ashtak-pashtak.

apricot

15. This plant is supposedly the oldest plant grown by man for their delicious fruit.

fig

16. The fruit of this plant is very tasty and is used in Asian folk medicine to stop bleeding.

mango

17. This fruit has delicious flesh and an inedible rind that contains a sticky dyeing latex.

mangosteen

18. In addition to its edible fruit, some tropical species of this plant are the source of ebony, a valuable wood of very beautiful color.

persimmon

19. The fruits of this plant become sweet only after freezing or long-term storage. Freshly picked ripe fruits are hard and very sour.

German medlar

20. Cultivated forms of this plant have no seeds, and the cohorts may consist of more than 300 fruits.

banana